Who will it pay

It's not that there are indeed more than 3 dimensions. "Dimension"
is a concept, a
reality of the 2nd order.
Dimensions are
constructs, like

the equator. You can't just impose any
construct on reality.
A spinning sphere
can have only one equator. But lines of longitude or latitude can be distributed in many ways. The idea of time as a 4th dimension arose only from the disturbing experimental
results that verified relativity. Perhaps there is a multidimensional reality — maybe not.

It may be that 4 are all that's required to explain phenomena we experience?
